DIGESTS OF CURRENT NYC THEATRE REVIEWS

Hamlet-Phoenix 3/16. 6 pro-and 1 con- Mirror-filed on Phoenix Theatre presentation directed by Stuart Vaughan with Donald Madden, Joyce Ebert, Alexander Scourby, Patricia Falkenhain, John Heffernan. Affirmative majority enjoyed youthful cast members, with slight differences in some minor players, and Vaughan's energetic direction; while the sole negative voter was disappointed with most of the work. Taubman, Times, shared his plaudits with 27 year old Madden and the director, who obtained from his company a semblance of consistency in Shakespearean diction. Kerr, Herald Tribune, approved of "Hamlet" for the young in heart. Davis, News, okayed full-blown, vigorous production, a worthwhile venture. Watts, Post, also recommended vigorous, forthright and interesting production, with its frankly sympathetic Hamlet. Post critic did not think performances of Scourby and Falkenhain up to players' best. McClain, Journal American, applauded good, three hour version with rousing performance by Madden in grand tradition, a splendid and inexpensive opportunity to see drama. Aston, World Telegram & Sun, liked this whizzingly exciting production, which he also recommended for all children. Single dissenter Coleman, Mirror, blamed the director for failing to inspire his troupe into giving a striking overall production, his players have varying accents that often are at odds. Madden also is uneven, Mirror man complained moving with grace but with his delivery of some speeches disturbing.

Ladies Night in the Turkish Bath- Gould (169 Allen St) 3/21. 1 pro- Mirror- and 6 cons- filed on revival of 1920 farce hit by Avery Hopwood-Charlton Andrews, adapted by Cyrus Woods. Presented and directed by Harold Lawrence with Lisa Loughlin, June Edwards, John Aniston, Douglas Wilson. Original ran 388 performances in 1920 at Eltinge Theatre, presented by A H Woods with Clairborne Foster. One aisle-sitter okayed the museum piece, while six panned it harshly. Of the cons three admitted leaving after the second act- Post, World Telegram & Sun, Journal American, and only Times mentioned the players the other five ignoring cast names in negative notices. Pro voter Coleman, Mirror, mildly approved it for those willing to settle for passe patter, most of the anatomical variety and bosoms, bosoms and legs by cast eager to please. But Calta, Times, heading con majority panned it as tiresome, old creaky comedy that has some pretty girls and some moments of merriment, but the result being heavy-handed, repetitious and labored. Davis, News, almost gave himself a mdeal for staying until end of the most severe cornball barrage in recent theatre history. Kerr, Herald Tribune, pummelled the cast as amateurs who forgot that you must be human to be funny. Watts, Post, tabbed it something simply dreadful. Aston, World Telegram & Sun, was only bored by dirty suggestions and efforts to be daring. McClain, Journal American, panned tasteless abomination in which the absence of talent is monumental.

Feast of Panthers-East 74(334 E 74)- 3/20-3/22. 6 con- Times, Herald Tribune, News, Post, World Telegram & Sun, Journal American- and 0 pro- filed on new play by Tom Del Vecchio about Oscar Wilde presented and staged by John Bowman with Claire Luce and J Byron Webster. All blamed author, the AP reporter at Idlewild, NY, for failing to add anything new to Wilde legend, three afternoon paper reviewers-Post, World Telegram & Sun, Journal American-noted that Michael MacLiammoir's one man The Importance of Being Oscar was better done and in much better taste. Esterow, Times, found it interesting at times, but thought too much of it was soap opera. Morgenstern, Herald Tribune, disliked disjointed, distasteful plan, barren of characterization. Davis, News, billed it as more of a case history than a play. Earlier this season play was presented by Idlewild Players at the airport.

THEATRE
COMMENTS

"A Victorian in Orbit: The Irreverent Memoirs of Sir Cedric Hardwicke" by Hardwicke and James Brough (Double-day $4.50) recommended by three reviewers. Aston, World Telegram & Sun, enjoyed volume of reminiscences by an old-timer in the theatre. Coleman, Mirror, approved of lively and illuminating reading, an excellent job of recording the reminiscences and opinions on things theatrical. Millstein, Times, rated it a valuable part of the chronicle of the theatre of the last half century.

"Curtains", selections from drama criticism by Kenneth Tynan (Atheneum $7.95), proves the author's place as an important critic, comments Harold Clurman, Times Book Review. Tynan that rare phenomenon, a genuine theatre critic, is disposed toward the theatre, he possesses in regard to the theatre something like absolute pitch. Clurman also feels that Tynan has sought and achieved influence on the English theatre.

Jamaica songs on MGM background music albums with David Rose orchestra recommended by Watt, News. "Savannah" can be found on the "Exodus" record, "Take It Slow Joe" on "Cimarron" and "Pretty to Walk With" on "Butterfield 8" record. Harold Arlen songs from the recently neglected but undeniably attractive musical deserve more attention, critic noted.

On the Town revival of original cast (Columbia) with Nancy Walker, Betty Comden, Adolph Green conducted by composer Leonard Bernstein, enjoyed by Wilson, Times, for both the freshness and sparkle of the music and of the lyrics.... Do Re Mi original cast album (RCA) panned by Times record reviewer as hackneyed, contrived and commonplace.

COMMENTS

The Wooden Dish (WNTA Play of the Week) revival of 1955 drama by Edmund Morris with Henry Hull, Martha Scott, George Mathews drew 2 pro and 1 con votes from NY daily TV reviewers. Bakal, Herald Tribune, found play a powerful, sensitive drama embracing valid theme, well-acted, thoughtful, provocative and interesting. Gardella, News, agreed that thought dull at times it was moving, tender and offered plenty of food for thought. But Shanley, Times, okayed only Hull's performance , while he marked play tearful slice of life in a drab framework.

GREEN
DEPARTMENT

CARIO BAN PANDED... Childish bad manners of the United Arab Republic banning American Theatre Guild Repertory Co Cario performances because troupe also will play in Israel makes Nasser's "culture" a laughingstock, states Times editorial... Despotism and culture are rarely congenial companions, comments Post editorial... It suggests that Nasser's cleverness may be over-rated, adds Watts, Post.

COLUMN TIPS... Pay tv preview of Gone With the Wind musical next season expected to gross $1 million, hears Griffin, Mirror... Edward Mulhare discarded his false beard for The Devil's Advocate because some complained it made him too "Christ-like", notes McHarry, News... Yves Montand may star next season in Hold Back the Dawn musical version, lists Farrell, World Telegram & Sun.

LIVING THEATRE TOUR... It would be a great pity if the "Living Theatre" cannot raise the $34,000 required for five week European tour of festivals with The Connection, Many Loves, In the Jungle of Cities, argued Taubman, Times. It is a youthful, talented ensemble which in a few years has created an acting company and a vigorous repertory. Judith Malina- Julian Beck group represents the kind of continuity and coherence of viewpoint that is in such short supply. For the sum involved critic believes it would be hard to imagine livelier value in theatre expeditions.

"LADY" BIRTHDAY... Sixth NY birthday of My Fair Lady is also celebrated by long runs in London, Stockholm, Sydney, Amsterdam, reminds Journal American editorial. We need more goodwill ambassadors like Eliza Doolittle and Henry Higgins.

CRITICAL THOUGHTS... All the Way Home picked by Watts, Post, as best new American play of the season... Comedie Francaise performance of Robert Hirsch in title role of "Scapin" was the greatest single comic performance in NY in many years, rates Chapman, News... The Death of Bessie Smith title of Edward Albee short play strikes Watt, News, as fraudulent and uses the name and memory of the great blues singer in a cheaply sensational fashion.

DRAMA MAIL BOX... Herald Tribune reader would like to exchange Walter Kerr for Jean Kerr as regular reviewing, labeling Mr K as too sarcastic.. Robert Moses, 1964 NY World Fair president, filed an open letter answer to "Variety" charge that Fair would have no amusements. They expect a big attraction at Amphitheatre and will welcome any clean amusements.

CON PHOENIX REPERTORY... Phoenix Theatre current season with its own repertory company left something to be desired, Coleman, Mirror, vetoed. Reviewer urges Phoenix to return to its original program of presenting plays that Broadway considers non-commercial, done with stars willing to work at minimum Equity wages in roles they cannot do on Broadway. Repertory systems are not for our times unless millionaires are available to sooth the growing pains with hefty checks.

PROS & CONS BY TMK

Big Fish, Little Fish is a brilliant first play by a mystery writer turned playwright who knows how to place fascinating, fully developed "little people" in a stimulating situation and who also knows how to make his audience laugh and cry at the same time. The seven expert character actors involved have a perfect evening topping each other and still playing beautifully together under the ice-carved direction of John Gielgud.

Hamlet is an exciting, clearly stated version presented by an excellent young Phoenix Repertory cast and staged with the energy Stuart Vaughan used to put in the NY Shakespeare Festival outdoor productions. Donald Madden's portrayal of the title role is very convincing, while the entire cast joins in bringing fresh insight into the many-sided drama.

* * *

The Death of Bessie Smith is an exciting, frightening documentary-editorial pinpointing effectively the sickness of prejudice. The attack by talented Edward Albee is realistic, not avant garde, but always in the best dramatic traditions. As a companion piece to the clever, bitter satire on American materialism, American Dream, the twin bill shows diverse sides of the young playwright. Though everyone awaits Albee's full length play, he should not be rushed into doing something he is not ready for. As it stands he is the king of the modern one act play, American division.

* * *

Ladies Night in the Turkish Bath is a very bad, boring revival of a 1920 hit farce that certainly lost something in transition. Dirty jokes about various parts of the body were probably never funny, but played at break-neck speed by experienced comics it might be passable. Current try is more like a slow-boat to Union City, NJ, burlesque house.

* * *

First night critics who harshly panned Ladies Night will probably make a mistake if they think they have killed it off. Judging by the second night audience, three quarters filled with middle-aged males, the show is in for a long, profitable run. Disgusting but profitable.

* * *

Ford Foundation establishment of "Theatre Communication Group" is another wonderful example of the "Put Up or Shut Up" school of subsidy. Again the Ford staff has highlighted an acknowledged theatre problem and given a short term grant to try to start to solve it. Unless theatre leaders, from both the NY and college-community fields, agree to set up such an organization on a long-run basis, the Ford Foundation might well excuse itself from further theatre projects.

Trend Spotters Dept: Two former heavy-weight boxing champions are scheduled to "star" in forthcoming Broadway productions. In both cases their acting experience has been convinced to TV and the ring.
